

BocMeow Pet Care Releases Their Pet Care and Pet Health Blog

(LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA) – Pet care and pet health are important topics to any and all pet lovers. But there is so much disparate information across the web, it can be difficult to find quality, usable information. BocMeow.com is changing that.

With the recent release of their new blog, BocMeow is working on becoming not only a provider of pet care services in the South Bay area of Southern California, but an online authority on the topics of pet care and pet health. And with the realization over the years that our pets benefit from natural products and holistic care in the same way that humans do. You can now learn for yourself what is best for YOUR pet, not just what is inexpensive at the store. And you too can provide the best possible care for your pet at home. With information from BocMeow.com you can ensure that your pet is safe from potential poisonous foods around your house, you can recognize symptoms in an ill pet before they are at a point where a vet is immediately necessary, and you can sit back and enjoy the time with your pet instead of wondering if they should be playing with “that” or eating “that”.

Remember that your pet’s well-being is just as important as yours...Visit their blog to see for yourself just what your pet may be missing out on. You won’t be disappointed.

For more information please visit <http://www.bocmeow.com>.

Bocmeow Pet Care offers the finest care and loving attention for your pets when you aren’t available so that your pets suffer less stress and are as comfortable and happy as they can be while away from you. BocMeow Pet Care is a proud member of the National Association of Professional Pet Sitters (NAPPS) and Professional United Pet Sitters. They are also insured by the Pet Sitters Associates, LLC. They provide services to the greater Los Angeles area.

#

Media Contact:

Shannon Benecke

Phone: (310) 686-1196

E-Mail: bocmeow@bocmeow.com